A guide to Wills and Legacies

JEWISH CARE

A quarter of the money we need to raise to continue our vital work comes from gifts in people's Wills.

Jewish Care is the largest health and social care organisation serving the Jewish community in London and the South East. We run over 70 centres and services, touching the lives of 10,000 people every week. Every year, we need to raise £16 million so that we can continue to support those who need us most. £1 in every £4 we raise is thanks to the generosity of people who kindly decided to remember Jewish Care in their Wills.

Gifts in Wills are something special. Yours could be big or small, but whatever the size, it could make a difference to the lives of so many people, ensuring we can continue to deliver high-quality care to vulnerable members of our community and their families, when they need it most.

Without gifts in Wills, we simply couldn't help all those who need us. As we all live longer, the need for Jewish Care will only grow and your legacy is an opportunity to help us continue our services, providing care that is distinctively Jewish for our community long into the future.

Your legacy will make a real difference

Legacies support a quarter of all our caring work. Many of our services receive no Government funding at all. Without legacy gifts, we simply would not be able to keep them going.

A gift in your Will can help us continue to provide these vital services:

Jewish Care Direct Helpline – often the first port of call for someone in need of help and support

The Family Carers Team – providing someone to listen, much-needed advice and guidance for all those caring for someone

The Social Work and Community Support Team – enabling people to make a meaningful difference to their lives, with dignity and choice

Meals on Wheels – not only providing a hot, Kosher meal to those who need it but our volunteer drivers may be the only friendly face clients see from one day to the next

Gifts in Wills mean we can provide support when it's needed the most Wendy Stolerma has been a Senior Community Support and Advice Worker in the Family Carers Team at Jewish Care for over 15 years and passionately believes that no one should struggle alone, there is always support out there for anyone who needs it.

"My colleagues and I ensure we listen and give guidance and advice whenever needed. We are here to support our clients, who are caring for relatives, through some of the hardest years of their lives, and we do it because we truly care. It can be very rewarding.

We are all so grateful for the gifts in Wills that supporters have left Jewish Care, however big or small, which ensure we can continue to care for everyone who needs us. Thank you."

Marion's legacy will change lives

Marion was a volunteer at the Michael Sobell Jewish Community Centre for more than 30 years. She loved helping the members there and made many great friends. When her health started to deteriorate it was only natural that Marion's son Danny should continue to bring her to the centre so she could continue to see the people who mattered most to her in the place she called her second home.

But Marion did more than that. She made a gift in her Will so that the community centre she loved so much could continue to change lives.

“My mum was a selfless, wonderful person who always cared for others so it was only natural she would want to make sure that Jewish Care could continue their work through leaving a gift in her Will.”

Danny, Marion's son

A gift in your Will: your questions answered

Why do I need a Will?

A professionally written, up-to-date Will is the only way you can have peace of mind that the people and causes that matter to you are provided for in the way you choose. This avoids the stressful and time-consuming process that dying “intestate” (without a valid Will) often causes for those left to deal with your estate.

Can I update my current Will?

It is important to check your Will from time to time to make sure it still reflects your wishes and any changes in personal circumstances. Changes that affect your Will may include a birth or death in your family or marriage, separation or divorce, or even the death of an executor.

Who should write my Will?

We would always recommend consulting solicitors when writing your Will or amending an existing one. They will ensure the Will is legal and valid and that your wishes are clearly expressed using precise language. They may ask you to take essential information with you to your meeting. We can provide you with names of solicitors. You will also find more information about our free Will Writing Service on page 8 of this guide.

How do I choose my executors?

Executors are responsible for handling your estate and ensuring your wishes are carried out. It's a good idea to name at least two people to do this job. You can choose a solicitor, a family member or friend, as long as they are over the age of 18 and even if they benefit from a gift in your Will.

What type of gift can I leave Jewish Care?

There are two main types of gift: A percentage of your estate – After you have provided for loved ones, you can leave a share or all of what remains to charity. This is called a “residuary gift” and can be the best way to leave a gift as its value is not affected by inflation.

A cash gift – This is a fixed sum of money and is called a “pecuniary gift". For other types of gifts, please consult your solicitor.

How can I be sure my gift reaches Jewish Care?

It's important that you include our name (Jewish Care) and charity registration number (802559) in your Will, to ensure your gift reaches us.

Do I need to let Jewish Care know that I've left a gift in my Will?

We appreciate this is a personal matter and you do not have to let us know if you have left us a gift. However, if you choose to do so it will enable us to keep in touch from time to time and keep you updated about our work.

Are there tax benefits to leaving a legacy to charity?

Your beneficiaries will have to pay Inheritance Tax (IHT) only if your estate is over a certain value. Any gift to Jewish Care therefore might reduce your estate's liability for IHT. Under current law if a person leaves 10% or more of their taxable estate to charity, the remainder might qualify for a reduced rate of IHT. Your solicitor can advise further on this.

Where should I store my Will?

Your solicitor may offer to keep your original Will safe as part of their service. It's a good idea to make sure you also keep a copy in a safe place, together with information your executors will need about your assets.
